DOW JONES NEWSWIRE

Structured Investment Management Inc. is set to launch the new S&P 500 Protected Return Fund as a series of the Trust for Professional Managers, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The fund will seek capital growth while seeking to preserve initial invested capital and provide a minimum return during the protected return period.

During the protected return period, the fund will seek capital growth through direct investments and derivatives that, before expenses, correspond as closely as practicable to the total return of the Standard & Poor's 500 Composite Stock Price Index.

The protection period will run from the inception date of the fund through the ten year anniversary of that date, the SEC filing from Friday said.

Ramesh K. Menon is the Portfolio Manager for the Fund and is primarily responsible for the day-to-day management of the Fund's portfolio.

1539 GMT [Dow Jones] SMI closes +0.9% at 7250.70, following positive moves in both the S&P500 and DJIA, says a trader. Banks recover from an earlier slide, on JP Morgan's 1Q earnings since results generally met expectations, he adds. UBS closes +1% and Credit Suisse closes +2.1%. Roche ends +2.2%, ahead of 1Q sales due Thursday, which will be closely watched, says the trader. Merrill Lynch 1Q results, and US jobless claims at 1230 GMT will also be in focus Thursday. (CPZ)

AT A GLANCE: Fed Expands Securities Lending Program

(c) 2008 Dow Jones & Company, Inc.

THE NEWS: The Federal Reserve Tuesday announced an expansion of its securities lending program, saying it will lend up to $200 billion of Treasury securities to primary dealers.

The $200 billion of Treasury securities to primary dealers will be secured for a term of 28 days rather than overnight as in the existing program by a pledge of other securities, including federal agency debt, federal agency residential-mortgage backed securities and non-agency AAA/Aaa-rated private-label residential mortgage backed securities, the Fed said.

Securities will be made available through an auction process. Auctions will be held on a weekly basis beginning on March 27.

Also, the Federal Open Market Committee has authorized increases in its existing temporary reciprocal currency arrangements with the European Central Bank and the Swiss National Bank.

The move was made in conjunction with similar liquidity moves by the ECB, SNB, Bank of England and Bank of Canada.

In a joint statement, the central banks said, "Since the coordinated actions taken in December, the G-10 central banks have continued to work together closely and to consult regularly on liquidity pressures in funding markets," the central banks said in a joint statement.

"Pressures in some of these markets have recently increased again. We all continue to work together and will take appropriate steps to address those liquidity pressures."

CENTRAL BANKS' MOVES:

The Bank of Japan welcomed the coordinated action from central banks, saying it will insure there are "sufficient" funds in its money markets over the March 31 fiscal year end.

"The Bank of Japan welcomes these measures and hopes that they will contribute to maintaining the functioning of the international financial markets," the bank said in a statement on its Web site.

The European Central Bank said it will resume its provision of dollar liquidity to stem reemerging pressure in the funding markets.

"The governing council of the ECB has decided, in conjunction with the Federal Reserve and in the context of the Term Auction Facility (TAF), to offer U.S. dollar funding to Eurosystem counterparties as it did in December 2007 and in January 2008," the ECB said in a press release.

The Bank of England will again offer a higher level of reserves in its three-month repurchase operation next week to ease pressures in sterling short-term funding markets.

"The bank is taking this action in view of continuing elevated pressures in short-term funding markets," the BOE said in a statement on its Web site. "The bank will decide the size of the April operation in the light of the results of March's operation."

MARKETS' REACTION:

The dollar was erasing its overnight losses versus the euro and was much stronger against the yen after the Fed's announcement. Early Tuesday in New York, the euro was at $1.5372 from $1.5350 late Monday, while the dollar was at Y102.95 from Y101.71. The euro was at Y158.27 from Y156.14, according to EBS. The U.K. pound was at $2.0107 from $2.0099, and the dollar was at CHF1.0277 from CHF1.0190 Monday.

Treasury bond prices fell after the Fed's announcement. In recent trade, the two-year note was off 19/32 yielding 1.76% and the 10-year note was down 1 7/32 yielding 3.59%. Just Monday, the two-year note had been yielding as little as 1.42% and the 10-year note 3.42%.

Treasurys benchmark yield curve, or the spread between the two- and 10-year yields, had also flattened on the news to plus 183 basis points compared with plus 198 late Tuesday as expectations for very hefty interest rate eases were scaled back.

The April fed-funds contract - measuring market expectations for next Tuesday's policy session - recently priced in about a 60% chance for the Fed to drop the key short-term rate to 2.25%. At Monday's settlement, the April contract had been fully priced for 2.25%. The rate currently stands at 3%.

Oil futures slipped back below $109 a barrel after the announcement. Recently, April Nymex crude was up 98 cents at $108.88 a barrel.

U.S. stocks surged at the open following the Fed's announcement. The Dow Jones Industrial Average was up 265 points, Nasdaq climbed 56 and the S&P500 rose 27.

Mortgage bonds guaranteed by Fannie Mae (FNM) and Freddie Mac (FRE) soared Tuesday after the Federal Reserve said it would accept these securities, among others, as collateral for an expansion of the bank's lending facility.

Risk premiums on agency mortgage bonds tightened 20 basis points versus U.S. Treasurys, erasing some of the dramatic widening the market had experienced in recent sessions. Last week, premiums, or spreads, blew out as much as 50 basis points as hedge funds scrambled to raise funds to meet margin calls.

WHAT THEY SAID:

Strategist David Ader of RBS Greenwich said the action "may be a disappointment as they are not taking the paper off of balance sheets on a permanent basis - MBS were tighter by 10-12 basis points but are now about 8 basis points tighter."

"I think the knee-jerk (reaction) is to buy the dollar, because it shows a coordination among central banks that you haven't seen in a while," said Win Thin, currency strategist at Brown Brothers Harriman. "For the last few months all the central banks have kind of been off on their own wavelength a little bit."

Joint action from key central banks is very likely to "change the psychology of the markets," said John Hardy, analyst at Saxo Bank in London. "The market's going to get the message not to fight the Fed. The message is that if the market lays on more worry, the Fed will lay on more easing."

The Swiss central bank injecting up to $6 billion in wider central bank action to boost dollar liquidity will help alleviate tensions in the money-market short term, but probably won't have a lasting impact, said Sarasin economist Alessandro Bee. "Tensions in the money market are a result of the credit markets crunch, which in turn is a structural problem" that won't get solved by more short-term liquidity, he said.

Of the dollar's big gains after the Fed's announcement, Alan Ruskin, strategist at RBS Greenwich Capital, said, "I suspect the USD is rallying on this news quite simply because it has caught the market short USD, and the market not quite knowing what to do with the new information started squaring up leading to a cascade of short-covering. The economic rationale for buying USD is that it encourages confidence in the US financial system, but earlier this morning the market was buying risk and selling the USD on exactly the same logic."

Coordinated action from major central banks to ease short-term funding pressures offer a "sticking plaster rather than a cure" to financial markets, said Adam Cole, currencies strategist at RBC Capital Markets in London. "It's not like the outlook for the U.S. economy has improved dramatically Tuesday, but it helps the market to muddle through while this is going on," he said.

Lehman Brothers economist Drew Matus calls Fed's expansion of securities lending program "the smartest thing I've seen the Fed do in a long time." For liquidity injections to work effectively, he said, they need to be targeted "to the right part of the marketplace," in this case agency debt and non-agency private label mortgage-backed securities. "That is a very powerful tool," he said.

"The Fed move is something innovative and outside the box," said Walt Schmidt, mortgage strategist at FTN Financial. "It will buy the market some time and not let the market trade on margin calls, at least not so much."

The "Fed's announcement (is) seen as a way to improve liquidity. It's a nice start," said Matt Jozoff, head of mortgage research at JP Morgan. [ 11-03-08 1336GMT ]

0734 GMT [Dow Jones] SMI premarket indications point to a +0.3% higher opening at 7079, following gains in Asia and the S&P500 future index, says a trader. "Also, the US dollar didn't lose more against the Swiss franc and the euro, so there's some stabilization seen in the currency market," he adds. US chain store sales and trade balance figures at 1145 GMT and 1230 GMT shouldn't move the market, says the trader, but Germany's ZEW indicator of economic sentiment at 1000 GMT is worth a glance. 0739 GMT [Dow Jones] The Bel-20 is seen opening +0.3% at 3714, following DJIA narrowing losses and S&P500 closing up Monday, but investors remain jittery on the state of the global economy and any bargain hunting could easily be curbed by any bad news, a trader says. UCB in early focus on some positive news concerning its new drug. On the macroeconomic side euro zone 4Q GDP and January PPI are due at 1000 GMT. (PKI)
